New exhibition at Materia.

The main office in Tranås has undergone a makeover at the hands of architect Marie Oscarsson from Spectrum Arkitekter. For instance, our showroom has been upgraded with an entirely new exhibition area, but any visitors to Materia will already see the changes at the entrance.

The words innovative, consideration and inspiration have guided Marie Oscarsson in her work to create an innovative working environment and exhibition area. The result is one where every detail oozes Materia. The furniture is used as important elements in the rooms. The entrance area has for example furniture with stitch details and a design language inspired by clothing.

"The idea was to try and introduce an activity-based mindset. The upper floor has space for work requiring concentration and seclusion, as well as areas where one can sit and check email, so-called touch down zones. There are of course also areas for spontaneous meetings, creative internal and external meetings, lounge and canteen furnishings. All clothes racks and umbrella holders are on display in the entrance, i.e. fittings usually found in this area. Here I also used furniture that reminds people of outdoor clothes, for instance Blanket with its quilted wool covering and Coat."
