

Press release 2016-09-26

Autumn launch for five products from Materia.

With its headquarters and its own factory in Tranås, Materia has always gone down its own road when it comes to creating furniture that places people and meetings at centre stage. A refusal to compromise from the outset in 1992 has resulted in many of their products finishing up in the finest design museums in the country.

We are now launching five updated products. For instance, a swivel base and a writing tablet are being added to the Neo Lite chair range. Another chair that will be available in a new version is Stack, now also adapted for use in schools. The Avant bench has also been developed and can now be ordered in materials not available before. And finally, a wall-mounted table is now available as an accessory for Materia's Newcomer 2016, Lean In.

Neo Lite chair/armchair with swivel base

Neo Lite's beautiful lines create an attractive chair which looks interesting and 'enlivening' regardless of which direction you look at it from. A new feature this autumn is that it can be supplemented with a 4-star base fitted with castors or glides. Armrests matching the base are also available. The surface finish can be ordered in chrome alt. white, black or silver grey, powder coating. The seat shell is available in several different polypropene colours and woods. You can choose between non-upholstered, upholstered seat or fully upholstered, which allow you to put your own personal touch to Neo Lite.

Neo Lite will also be available as a model with a writing tablet that is fitted to a wire frame. The tablet is fitted on the right as standard but is easy to refit on the left. The writing tablet is made of durable, compact laminate, in white or black with black core, and it can be easily removed if the chair needs to be stacked. Surface finish in chrome.

This new version of the previous Stack model has been fitted with a four-legged frame which is even more robust to cope with tough school environments. Surface finish in chrome alt. white, black or silver grey powder coating. Just like Stack, Stack+ also offers the same practical benefits. For instance, you can link it together with other Stack chairs or stack them on each other to save space. The seat and back are available in several different polypropene colours. Choose between an upholstered or non-upholstered seat.

Lean In

Our 2016 Newcomer enables a natural form of behaviour – leaning while standing up. The piece of furniture is wall-mounted and forms an invitingly soft support for the body. A wall-mounted table is now available as an optional extra. The table top is made of durable compact laminate and is available in two versions; black or white with black core. The arm can be ordered in chrome alt. white or black powder coating. Lean In is ideal in areas with limited space, or in rooms where you want to create new ways of interacting.
