

Materia presents six design innovations for autumn 2015.

Ever since it was founded, Materia has been known for a combination of innovative user-centred design and carefully selected materials as well as manufacturing methods. This year's autumn innovations comprise several exciting product updates and complements to the existing range. For example, the Couture room dividers and metal cubes have now acquired their own stands. In addition, new organic table tops and heights have been introduced for the Bone table.

Design: Marie Oscarsson

Couture room divider with stand

The Couture room divider is being complemented by a stand in steel-tube lacquered grey and can act both as a freestanding shelf in the room or against the wall.

Design: Marie Oscarsson

Couture metal table with stand

The Couture metal table has several applications, such as a table or plant cube. Several tables placed in series and on top of each other form a room divider and can create a wall of greenery together with trays on which plants may be placed.

Design: Steinar Hindenes, Lars Tornøe, Atle Tveit

Bone table

The Bone table has acquired new table top sizes and heights. The table tops have a soft organic shape and are available not only in the previous standard versions of oak, walnut and white laminate but additionally in yellow-stained ash.

Design: Axel Bjurström, Mia Cullin

Cap stool

The easily positioned Cap stool has been complemented by a grey plastic ring as standard. The frame is in grey fitted felt as before.

Design: Steinar Hindenes, Lars Tornøe, Atle Tveit

Bone chair fully upholstered

The Bone plastic chair is now also being launched in a more luxurious and more comfortable fully upholstered variant.

Design: Fredrik Mattson

Neo armrests

The Neo conference chair with a low, medium and high back has now acquired a new tubular armrest with wound black integral foam. The armrest can be combined with the various leg frames.